Deutsche Gesellschaft
für Auswärtige Politik e.V.

INTERNATIONALE POLITIK is the journal of the German Council on Foreign Relations (DGAP). Founded in 1945 by Wilhelm Cornides under the name Europa-Archiv, IP is the oldest forum on international relations in the Federal Republic of Germany.

IP-Global Edition appears as a supplement of the German IP and features debates on fundamental questions of global politics, highlighting German and European perspectives. Portraying controversial positions in depth, IP-Global Edition allows its audience to form well-versed opinions. Internationally renowned experts from academia, politics, the business world, and the media write for IP-Global Edition.

The German Council on Foreign Relations is a non-profit, private organization. It is non-partisan and independent. According to its by-laws, the Council discusses issues of international policy, security, and economics and sponsors academic research and its publication. Through a variety of meetings, study groups, and publications, it seeks to enlarge understanding of these issues. The purpose of the Council is to promote understanding between peoples and support international academic cooperation.

The German Council on Foreign Relations and its publications do not take positions on issues of international politics. The opinions expressed in the journal are those of the authors alone.
